Penguins are cute animal species with a strong sense of smell. They mainly love fish and drink, and in the winter, they swim to the warm southern regions in Antarctica. What a horrible place the Antarctic is, and even though the people in the northern parts of the world have rarely visited it, they do not even know where it is. Meanwhile, the penguins grew up by themselves from their natural habitats. They have developed a good sense of smell and spend their days searching for the best food. Most of them have not eaten fish for a long time. They are not only extremely polite, but also friendly.
